Why knitting?

"I'm proud I can knit alone and make something myself".
C. knitting student

A knitting class for children addresses several of the educators' objectives and development milestones:

- Improved fine motor skills, dexterity, focus, muscle memory, math, and geometry (shapes, 3D)
- Rising creativity: They can wear it, show it, or gift it, and will have new ideas for designs and items.
- Self-confidence and sense of accomplishment will rise, along with an appetite to learn more: perseverance, patience, and learning desires will grow.
- Aligned with SEL (Social-Emotional Learning) objectives: self-awareness, self-management, social awareness, relationship skills, and decision-making.

The life skills to support growing independent children academically, emotionally, and socially.

And they will proudly wear their creations.
